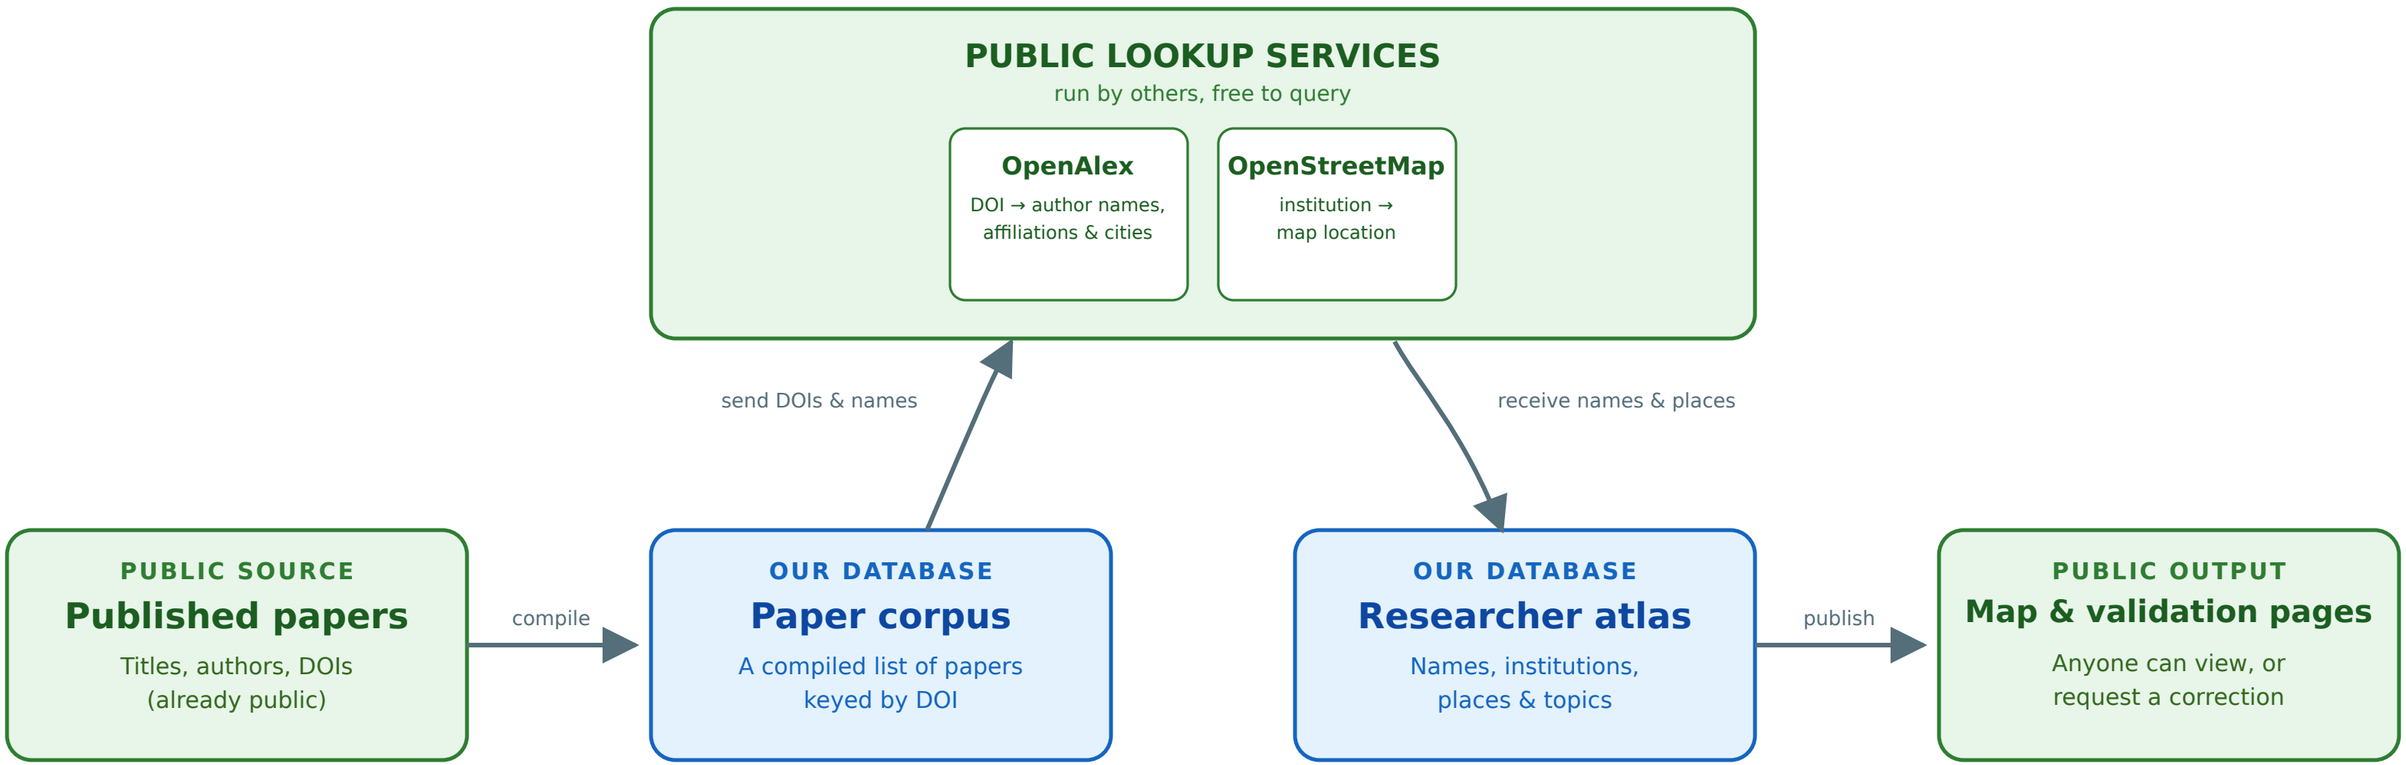
How the researcher data flows: all public, all looked up

Nothing shown is newly created or proprietary: it is public data cross-referenced against public services.



Public / external: published papers, public lookup services, public web outputs

Our compiled database: a list and cross-reference of public data (never a source of truth)

Each researcher's entry is built from their own published papers.